

The Illuminati's War Against Healthy Sexuality
by KERTH of thoughtcrimeradio.net

I recently watched a documentary entitled Buying Sex. It covered the controversy in Canada concerning an attempt by sex workers to legalize their profession. It was a well made documentary in many ways. It didn't try to glamorize the sex workers profession but it did try to humanize them. It also allowed those opposed to the legalization of prostitution to voice their legitimate concerns. It made clear that legalization of prostitution in New Zealand hadn't solved all their problems. It spoke briefly to cautionary issues like unwanted pregnancy, STDs and the violence done to female prostitutes. But ultimately it failed to really dig deep into the issue.

The Buying Sex documentary merely created yet another false dialectic. According to its theme, there is a war between two sides of this issue. On one side there are the angry feminists who blame the entire social problem on the evil sexual desires of men. On the other side are the sex workers and Johns who just want to do business with one another without the government's interference. But none of this deals with what is really going on. This entire social problem is really one that has been deliberately created by the Illuminati.

First off, the high unemployment and drug addiction which drives women into the sex worker profession are both being created by the same cartel of international bankers. The high unemployment is engineered. It creates greater profits for corporations because it lowers the costs of production by paying workers unfairly low wages. Any union organizers who try to create living wages for workers are bribed, blackmailed or simply killed off. The politicians are paid off with campaign donations so that they happily send jobs overseas. The army of the USA guards the opium fields of Afghanistan so that the cheap heroin flows to the Americas. The Banksters profit by laundering the drug money. None of what is happening is accidental, all of it is a part of a deliberate plan by Luciferian secret societies to destroy the family as a unit of society.

Of course the media never talks about the harmful impact that circumcision has on male sexuality. The removal of the foreskin shortly after birth is really a form of torture. The fact that the child can't articulate his pain doesn't make it less real. If the child survives this unnecessary surgery, he will grow up to experience a diminished sexuality. His ability to give and receive pleasure from normal intercourse is crippled by the loss of the foreskin. If you study the history of circumcision as I have, you find that the modern trend for medical circumcision has been deliberately engineered. Ridiculous excuses have been made up to promote the idea that circumcision is medically beneficial. It really is Satanic because it tortures children and it deliberately destroys what God has created. This failure of circumcised men to satisfy their wives, as well as the distortion of the male sex drive because of circumcision, are both unspoken aspects of the debate about prostitution. The truth is that circumcision is one of the factors which drives some men to seek impersonal relationships with prostitutes.

The early women's movement was noble in its goals and accomplishments. But the way the Illuminati works is that they never create anything, they just steal from others. And that's what they did with feminism. The Rockefeller family hired the CIA's Gloria Steinem and others like her to infiltrate the woman's movement. They took it over and transformed it from a movement to empower women to an attack on the American family. Gloria Steinem back in the 60s became famous for giving speeches on the virtues of hating men. When asked about circumcision, she said that it didn't go far enough. Although she moderated her rhetoric after the failure of the ERA, her attack on the family has never really ended. And her funding by the Rockefellers has never ended either. NOW magazine exists only because it's continually funded by men who want to program women's attitudes. Their real goal is to turn women into worker-slaves for the corporatocracy and cannon-fodder for the Military Industrial Complex.

During the sixties, a false dialectic was created. Angry feminists argued with those who believed in the sexual revolution--such as Playboy founder Hugh Hefner. The public became distracted by these phony arguments while the family institution was being destroyed by both of these groups. The truth is that both the feminists and the pornographers were preaching according to a script written by the Illuminati. These were always just two different strategies for destroying the family. Men are tempted into infidelity with porno, and women are brainwashed to believe that all men are pigs. Look at the rise in the divorce rate after the introduction of pornography and angry feminism into society. None of this was an accident.

At one point in the Buying Sex documentary, a feminist spokesperson defines the prostitution issue in a way which many people might feel tempted to accept. She said that most prostitutes are women, and most of their clients are men. So this, in her view, is just another exploitation of women by men. But this characterization of the issue is wrong. She fails to acknowledge the taboo issue of male homosexual pedophile prostitution rings. And this is a big issue. These male homosexual pedophile rings are used to recruit men into the Illuminati and to blackmail politicians. This type of prostitution of boys is at the heart of the political corruption which plagues all of America.

I was subjected to Satanic Ritual Abuse as a child, and I was sexually abused by Satanists, both male and female. Both male and female Satanists believe that the perversion of human sexuality is essential to Satanism. Sex magic rituals evolve sexual abuse combined with drugs and often torture. Such rituals are believed to create magical power. They often involve demonic possession.

Satanists desire to destroy or pervert everything good which God has created. They cannot help but to want to destroy the beauty of natural human sexuality. What the Illuminati wants is to drive all people into the kind of isolation which makes them into good slaves. They don't want the type of loving interconnection which naturally healthy sex creates between two people. They don't want individuals to have the support system of a family unit.

The Illuminati is really just an continuation of trends which have gone on for thousands of years. The Illuminati was created to unify the aristocratic secret societies which had existed in Europe since the founding of Christianity. Those secret societies were continuations of the Mystery Schools which existed in ancient Greece and Rome. Those Mystery Schools were disseminated from the religions of ancient Egypt, and Egypt was just one form of the Luciferian religions that go back to the Year of Light six thousand years ago.

Some believe that Christianity is the opposite of Satanism, but unfortunately I don't think that it's quite that simple. I am a Christian, but I know that most Christians fail to recognize the impact of Luciferianism on human culture. I would say that the historical Jesus, Yeshua, was the first world leader to successfully challenge the Luciferian overlords. If you look at the Roman Empire before and after the Christian revolution you can see that it did change things for the better. But the early Christian Church was undermined by the Mystery Cults of Apollo and Mithras when Constantine the Great made Christianity into Rome's official state religion. They could not destroy all of the revolutionary spiritual teachings of Yeshua, but they could put their own Luciferian spin on them. All post-Constantine Christianity is a watered-down version of Yeshua's revolution. This means that Puritanical Christianity is just another attack on natural sexuality. The early Christian Church was manipulated by Luciferian aristocrats to turn it into another system of social control. So the post-Constantine Christian Church became obsessed with using guilt about sex as a method of manipulating people. This obsession of judging people because of their sexuality still exists in many Christian Churches, and that type of judgmental manipulation does nothing to promote healthy sexuality. It's really just another form of Luciferian manipulation.

So let me offer this analysis.

By nature all human beings are physically capable of bisexuality. This doesn't mean that bisexuality is naturally desirable to all persons. But the capacity for bisexuality is natural. So it comes down to a matter of personal preference. Most people prefer heterosexual relationships by nature. Some persons are to varying degrees bisexual. Some are homosexual. Some prefer to abstain from sex. Furthermore, preference may involve monogamy or non-monogamous lifestyle choices.

The individual's basic preference may change over time depending upon circumstances in that person's life. Individuals aren't separate from their families and they aren't separate from society. As the individual experiences relationship changes with other people and society, his or her sexual preferences may change. In a relationship where there are children, the impact that relationship has on the children must be considered.

In a rational society, individuals would be able to sort out these issues on their own. If you believe in freedom, you would have to allow consenting adults to have as much freedom of choice as possible. So what's the problem with legalizing prostitution? I would contend that in a rational society this might make sense, but we don't live in a rational society. We live in a society that is under constant attack by hostile secret societies.

The present day entertainment industry is being used to program the sexual behavior of teenagers and even children. If you pay attention to music videos you can see that sexual promiscuity and pedophile fantasies are being promoted openly. Movies attack Christian values and promote the idea of promiscuity. Sex and violence are being commingled in the minds of the public. In the movies, violence is sexy and sex is just another violent confrontation.

In the present day environment of an Illuminati controlled society, the legalization of prostitution would not make the prostitutes safer, and it would not bring about greater sexual freedom. It would place the prostitutes in greater danger, and it would be used to control human sexuality. Imagine a world where men are nothing but worker slaves. If they perform well, they may be rewarded with sex from prostitutes. But none of these sexual encounters would lead to intimacy or love. In this world, prostitution is not a choice, women or children can be forced into prostitution whether they want it or not. This would be the degraded world which the Illuminati would wish to create.

Someday the Illuminati will fail. Someday Luciferianism will be deconstructed. Someday society will be reformed. Someday the spiritual revolution that Yeshua began will succeed. After that happens, the issue of legalizing prostitution might be rationally revisited. But until that happens, attempts to legalize prostitution will probably only make things worse.
